

Figure 1 Piggery especially hybrid varieties, is an important and profitable household small enterprise especially in tribal and North East state as it can be stall fed in farmers own house and enclosure with reasonably well .

Figure 2

Figure 3 Educational visit by Women farmers in Manipur For Mushroom oriented income generation activity,1995

Figure 4 Rabbit farming has become quite popular in many places of India like Himachal, Uttarakhand, North east and southern states as there is ready market with high profitability and less mortality due to disease and pests.

Figure 5 Due to scarcity of good quality water and Central Government funded subsidy for popularization Drip system of irrigation has become quite popular in high value and organized market of fruits and vegetables. Here a Banana plantation is seen from Karnataka near Bangalore where farmers with larger land holding have diversified their agriculture to

Figure 6

Construction of free of cost channel system for water conveyance in field channel of canal/ WHS for higher water use efficiency with lower cost.

Figure 7

BASKET MAKING IN BALACHAUR WATERSHED UNDER NWDPRA PROGRAMME.

Figure 8 Village common handloom for production of cotton as well woolen shaws, lehengas, gamchhas are very popular in tribal areas of North East states. Generaqlly the village women comes and works for a few hours at her suitable time after catering to domestic duties and child care for some considerable income and livelihoods without being displaced from his home and family nand village residence.

Figure 9

Figure 10

Figure 11

ROPE MAKING IN RAIPUR KHAD WATERSHED UNDER NWDPRP PROGRAMME.

Figure 12

Mushroom production indoor household production system in Manipur.

Figure 13

Food Processing indoor household production system in Nagaland

Figure 14

BEE KEEPING IN RAIPUR KHAD WATERSHED UNDER NWDPRA PROGRAMME.

Figure 15

A 28 month old tissue cultured neem tree selected for azadirachtin content